CSS [attribute*=value] Selector

- description : CSS [attribute*=value] Selector
- author :
- email : shlim@repia.com
- lastupdate : 2021-07-06 Tue

The source of this article

[CSS [attribute*=value] Selector](#)

Example

"test"      .

```
  <style>
    div[class*="test"] {
      background: #ffff00;
    }
    /* "test"                        div                      */
  </style>

</head>
<body>

  The first div element.
  The second div element.
  The third div element.
  This is some text in a paragraph.

</body>
```

The first div element.
The second div element.
The third div element.

This is some text in a paragraph.

Definition and Usage

[attribute*= value]   .

CSS Syntax

```
attribute *= value{
    css declarations;
}
```

More Examples

Example

"test"   .

```
  <style>
    [class*="test"] {
      background: #ffff00;
    }
    /* "test"                                                      */
  </style>

</head>
<body>

  The first div element.
  The second div element.
  The third div element.
  This is some text in a paragraph.

</body>
```

The first div element.
The second div element.
The third div element.

This is some text in a paragraph.

,, CSS, [attribute*=value], Selector,